February 22, 2021

GREENWICH, Conn., Feb. 22, 2021 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- XPO Logistics, Inc. (NYSE: XPO), a leading global provider of supply chain solutions, today announced that LaQuenta Jacobs, its chief diversity officer, has been named to the board of directors of Soles4Souls. Jacobs will serve as an independent, voting director of Soles4Souls, a non-profit organization with international scope.

Soles4Souls was founded on the premise that something as simple as a pair of shoes can make an enormous difference in sustainability, health and opportunity. To date, the group has distributed over 50 million pairs of new and repurposed shoes through direct donation and micro-enterprises that help break the cycle of poverty.

Josephine Berisha, chief human resources officer of XPO Logistics, said, "We congratulate LaQuenta on joining the board of Soles4Souls – a life-changing organization that deserves tremendous support. LaQuenta has a passion for social inclusion and a talent for accomplishing visionary goals. She'll be a strong asset to the board."

Buddy Teaster, president and chief executive officer of Soles4Souls, said, "LaQuenta joining the Soles4Souls board is another critical step in the evolution of our organization. Her professional expertise, ties to the logistics industry, and personal passion for service means we will be able to grow and serve more people in need around the world. We're incredibly lucky to have her and look forward to doing more great things together."

In 2020, XPO donated the logistics to move over 100,000 pairs of shoes to Soles4Souls destinations in North America and Europe, and mobilized a global shoe drive that resulted in thousands of employee donations.
