XPO Logistics Accelerates Hiring to Support Growth of Less-Than-Truckload Business in North America

April 7, 2021

Over 1,400 CDL-A driver and dockworker positions available

GREENWICH, Conn., April 07, 2021 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- XPO Logistics, Inc. (NYSE: XPO), a leading global provider of transportation and logistics services, today announced a new wave of hiring initiatives for its less-than-truckload (LTL) business. The company is recruiting for more than 1,400 positions across North America to meet growing demand for its LTL services, as the economy rebounds from COVID-19.

Approximately 750 CDL-A commercial truck driver jobs and 700 dockworker jobs are currently available, including 100 openings for candidates who want to earn pay as a dockworker while training tuition-free for a commercial driving career at XPO. Applicants can search all open positions by location and keyword on XPO's Careers site, and apply online.

XPO is one of the largest LTL providers in North America, with 290 service centers and coast-to-coast digital visibility into more than 17 billion pounds of freight picked up and delivered by its drivers each year. The company is seeing increased LTL activity from several sources, including an improvement in the industrial economy and the rapid growth of e-commerce, which is driving more retail shipments to LTL carriers.

Josephine Berisha, chief human resources officer of XPO Logistics, said, "We're proud that our LTL operations are a strong source of jobs creation, and that our customers will have this additional support. We look forward to welcoming over 1,400 new team members – and more after that as the year progresses."

The company offers qualified applicants a strong total compensation package that includes:

- Competitive pay and benefits, with benefits starting on day one of employment
- Training and technology that enhances job satisfaction
- A safe, inclusive and supportive workplace
- An accelerated path for hourly workers to reach top pay rate, merit increases, performance rewards and flexible shifts
- The potential for dockworkers to train tuition-free for a CDL-A license
- Tuition reimbursement for recent CDL-A driver school graduates
- The ability to explore career paths within the company

XPO recently honored 230 of its LTL drivers for accident-free achievements of one, two or three million miles in 2020. The company tracks LTL performance as part of its Road to Zero safety program. On average, it takes a driver approximately a decade of safe driving to achieve one million miles without an accident.
